Eligibility

- The competition is open to all graduate students with scholarly interest and career aspirations in the food distribution system who have completed the degree between January 1, 2022 and December 31, 2022.
- Please note: 1) applicants are limited to applying for each category only once and subsequent submissions will not be considered, 2) only one submission will be accepted per university per category each year, and 3) applications must be submitted by Friday, March 10, 2023 (there will be no deadline extensions) by the student's department head/chair via email to Andrew Muhammad (amuhammad@utk.edu) (be sure to include 2023 FDRS Scholarship Award in the subject line).

Award

- One travel stipend to attend the 2023 Annual Conference for each of the following categories: best Ph.D. Dissertation ($1,500), best M.S. Thesis ($1,500), and best M.S. Case Study ($1,500).
- Complimentary one-year FDRS student membership.
- Complimentary conference registration fees and recognition at the 2023.
- The Ph.D. recipient is invited to deliver a 10-minute research presentation during the FDRS Applebaum-Richardson Award Luncheon.

Application steps

Students should save the following, in order, as one PDF file. When labeling the PDF file, please include your first and last name, category (e.g., Best Ph.D.), and name of your university. Again, the final application must be submitted by the student's department head/chair via email to Andrew Muhammad (amuhammad@utk.edu) (be sure to include 2023 FDRS Scholarship Award in the subject line).

- Statement of Intent form (see attachment or <https://www.fdrsinc.org/fdrs-awards/>)
- Cover letter that includes a brief synopsis of academic training, any food industry experience, and/or research experience and career interests and goals.
- Letter of recommendation from the research paper advisor.
- A copy of the dissertation/thesis/case study
